

Learning in a changing world: money matters to learning

Learning in a changing world is a series of five books prepared by ALIA and ASLA and published by ACER to support teacher librarians and school libraries in the 21st century. This series will be the focus for professional learning during 2012.

This morning seminar is for primary & secondary teacher librarians and others who are responsible for school library services. The authors of two of the books in the series will provide practical applications for:

- ◆ Designing the learning environment
- ◆ Resourcing for curriculum innovation
