ANNUAL CONFERENCE 2004

Saturday 6 November 2004
8.30am – 5.00pm

University of Western Australia – Albany Centre
Stirling Terrace
Albany

Full session details will be available soon and will include a presentation by Bill Bunbury and the opportunity to participate in a transcribing workshop.

Delegates are invited to a “Welcome to Albany” on Friday 5 November. Tours to some of the historic sights of Albany have also been arranged for Sunday 7 November.

Who wouldn't want to come to Albany for the Oral History Conference?

As you probably know, Albany was the first European settlement in Western Australia (1826), three years earlier than the Swan River Colony. So it is jam-packed with history. The conference itself will be held in the Old Post Office (a heritage-listed building), which is now the University of Western Australia Albany Centre. All around you in the centre of town there are old buildings and streetscapes, which evoke Albany's position as premier seaport of WA until 1900.

You'll be able to walk around the CBD to the conference venue and to many different restaurants and shops from your accommodation. There will also be opportunities to visit historic venues like the WA Museum – Albany in the Residency Building, the Colonial Gaol, the National Trust property of the Old Farm at Strawberry Hill, the Princess Royal Fortress, St. John's Anglican Church (1848), and Australia's only whaling museum, Whaleworld, set in the original whaling station.

The natural beauty of the southern coastline and the Princess Royal Harbour is world-renowned. If you can extend your visit, there are many historic and scenic attractions in the Denmark and Mount Barker areas that complement the environment, the seasonal wildflowers, and the many new wineries.

You'll also find the locals very friendly and happy to see you. It's that sort of town!
