

Grant Webb, President, Australian Literacy Educators' Association

Biography

Over the past 30 years, Grant has undertaken a number of teaching and leadership roles across a variety of educational contexts, both nationally and internationally. He has had extensive experience working in both primary and secondary schools as well as in the tertiary sector. While working for the Department of Education in Queensland, Australia, he has been a classroom teacher, Learning Support Teacher, Educational Consultant and School Principal. He has been involved in numerous national and state education committees and has worked on many and varied educational projects and programs. He is regularly invited to present key addresses and join symposia to present his work in different state and national forums in the areas of literacy leadership and pedagogy.

Grant has been recognised in a number of forums for his contribution to education. In 2002, he received the Australian Prime Minister's Millennium Medal: For distinguished service to education. In 2011, he was the Recipient of the Director General's Bursary for Excellence; and more recently in 2012, he was a Finalist, Australian Institute of Management – Professional Manager of the Year.

