Rethink! Shaking up organisational culture with Mal Booth

Libraries and information organisations need to rethink the way they do business to ensure their long term relevance. One powerful way to enact change is to invest in developing a positive, energising organisational culture that encourages creativity and gives staff a space to contribute to the organisation's direction. Mal Booth, University Librarian at UTS, gives insights on how to create the kind of organisation everyone wants to work for. Mal will be joined by a panel of industry leaders from across Australia.

Read! Free ebook

The EBL eBook Library online package is available free to all ALIA members. My pick for the month is:

Pateman, John; Vincent, John. Public Libraries and Social Justice. Farnham: Ashgate, 2010.

The need for public libraries to tackle social exclusion and engage in social justice increases as the gap between rich and poor widens. If public libraries are to develop and grow in relevance at the heart of the community, then they need to abandon outmoded concepts of 'excellence' and fully grasp the 'equity' agenda. This book examines the historical background to social exclusion and the strategic context of government and professional policy and libraries. The authors propose a manifesto for change whereby public libraries can transform into needs-based services.
